

REHIS Intermediate Food Hygiene

Duration: 3 days and 2.5 hour exam.

Cost: price on enquiry

This Royal Environmental Health Institute of Scotland course is designed as the next level up from Elementary Food hygiene.

It expands the candidate's knowledge on all subjects covered in the Elementary course and goes into further depth in other areas. It is presented on PowerPoint and video and includes discussion and practical examples.

Candidates are set homework exercises (not compulsory) and are given feedback on their performance. After finishing the course candidates sit a 2½ written exam, which consists of short essay answers.

A book and course notes are also provided to candidates to give additional support material.
